Both sides had watchers at all the railroad stations bright and early this morning, and the first commuter was allowed to go to New York to business without first casting his vote or being appealed to do so.

An equally close watch was kept of every residence in town, and as promptly as possible he was promptly arrested and taken to the station.

The Independent says they will carry the town for Van Pelt by 100 majority. They are confident, too, that they will carry every election district except, possibly, the Second or Fort Hamilton, in which is the Inebriates' Home, and where also is the home of Bennett, Ferguson's candidate for Supervisor.

Fully 100 inmates of the Inebriates' Home are registered, but the Independent claim that only forty of them are entitled to a vote. Should any of the remainder attempt to vote, the Independent declare, they will be arrested.

The Ferguson people are making a bluff at being confident, but are making the fight of their lives.

At 9 o'clock this morning 140 out of the 150 voters had been polled at Van Pelt Manor, and Van Pelt was running well ahead. He expected to carry his district by a majority of 120 votes had been cast at Fort Hamilton, where all was quiet, and at Bath Beach, 175 out of 200 had voted.

No arrests had then been made at any of the polling places.

Sheriff Buttrick had thirty-five special deputies distributed among the six polling places of the town, and these, with the Citizens' League watchers, had a deterrent influence upon repeaters.

Schooner Alton S. Marshall Burned
After Being Abandoned.

The British steamer Mohawk arrived today from London bringing as passengers nineteen men taken from the wrecked schooner Alton S. Marshall, of Gloucester, Mass. The schooner was sighted by the Mohawk at 3.30 A. M. on March 28, when in latitude 41.1, longitude 28.2. Signals were observed from a vessel in distress. Although there was a strong wind and a heavy sea, Capt. Whit- shire ordered the Mohawk's course altered immediately and bore down towards the vessel.

As darkness then set in he stood by the schooner until daylight set in. At daybreak Capt. Whitshire learned that the disabled vessel was commanded by Capt. J. H. Marshall, and that while on a voyage from Gloucester to Ireland, and among the ice, she had encountered a heavy gale, and was driven ashore on her beam ends, thereby causing her cargo, consisting principally of salt, to shift to one side. Capt. Whit- shire ordered a lifeboat lowered and manned, and in charge of Chief Officer Stone proceeded to the wrecked vessel, with the assistance of the schooner's boat, they succeeded in saving the whole crew of nineteen men.

The schooner, being an obstruction to navigation, with Capt. Marshall's consent, it was set on fire. The following are the names of the survivors: Capt. Marshall, C. Duppette, Land, W. Ger- ry, A. J. H. Marshall, and that while on a voyage from Gloucester to Ireland, and among the ice, she had encountered a heavy gale, and was driven ashore on her beam ends, thereby causing her cargo, consisting principally of salt, to shift to one side. One Found Dead, Many In-the Carmencita Ball.

POLICE BATTLED FOR LIFE.

Terence Gallagher, the Victim,
Said to Have Died of Heart Disease.

ONE MAN HAD A BROKEN SKULL.

Lights Were Turned Out While Dancers and Bluecoats Fought with Clubs and Bottles.

The masque ball of the Carmencita Club, which was held in Tammany Hall last night, ended just after 3 o'clock this morning amid scenes of the wildest excitement. There was a hand-to-hand fight between policemen and dancers. Intoxicated women and men sought to prevent further interference, and were badly clubbed. When the disturbance was at its height the lights were put out. How many persons were wounded in the dark is not known. When the lights were finally turned on one man was found dead on the steps leading to the street, another had a fractured skull and a third with a badly cut head. The dead man was Terence Gallagher, thirty-three years old, a rascally soul, who lived at 122 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. The police say death was due to heart disease.

Mark Buckner, twenty-five years old, a Baxter street puller, living at 34 Delancey street, has a fractured skull. George Lewis Bernstein, forty-five years old, a harness maker, of 77 Rivington street, has a scalp wound. The latter two were arrested.

The ball was largely attended. It had been well advertised. Liquor flowed freely, and both Inspector Williams and Capt. Gallagher had their hands full in preserving order. At 1 o'clock this morning the Inspector and Captain left the hall. Patrolman George Smith, of the Eighteenth Precinct, was left in charge of the crowd with instructions to see that no liquor was sold or given away. There were not less than 1,500 persons in the place.

The bar was closed, but that did not prevent a drinking bout. Full-dressed waiters carried bottles and champagne into boxes, holding them under the floor.

The floor proper was crowded with dancers, and the boxes were filled with men and women, who were drinking. In other boxes the crowd was shouting to the dancers. Some of the merriest of them poured beer from the boxes onto the heads of the dancers. In other boxes the crowd was shouting to the dancers. DESPOTIC TILLMAN.

He Now Shuts Off All Wire News
at Darlington.

Only Urgent Business or Private Messages Can Be Sent.

The simplest communications to newspapers refused.

(By Associated Press.)
FLORENCE, S. C., April 3.—Gen. Riechberg, under special instructions from Gov. Tillman, has tonight placed the Western Union Telegraph office at Darlington under military orders and gave positive instructions to the guards in charge that no news of the situation could be sent through that office, and that the only business that could be forwarded or received must be for the militia, or of an imperative commercial or private nature.

This is the furthest step yet taken, amounting to an attempt at total suppression of news.

A simple message to the editor of the Charleston News and Courier saying that "The military had received a supply of blankets by express," was marked "office under military control; guard refuses to let it be sent."

Gen. Riechberg claims that he has no discretion in the matter and that he has had the office on parole since his arrival.

POISON AFTER THE QUARREL.

Young Mrs. Hart Swallowed Laudanum to End Her Troubles.

Her Husband Summoned Physicians, but She Died at Dawn.

Young Mrs. Hart, nineteen years old, of 623 Third avenue, who ended her life by swallowing laudanum, died at dawn this morning.

She was the wife of John Hart, to whom she was married about a year ago. The pair got into a quarrel about money matters early last evening, and Mrs. Hart said she would bring her troubles to an end. She left the house and visited a neighboring drug store, where she bought a bottle of laudanum, telling the druggist that she wanted to use it to cure a toothache. Returning home, Mrs. Hart drank the contents of the phial and lay down upon a bed.

At daylight this morning her condition was called in Dr. Hagan, of 255 Eighth street, and Dr. Schroeder, of 231 Ninth street. The physicians administered the usual remedies, and it was thought that Mrs. Hart would recover.

At daylight this morning it was seen that the woman was sinking, and the physicians were again called. In spite of their efforts, however, she died at 7 o'clock. The police did not hear of the case until just before the woman died.

Capt. Murphy sent two detectives to investigate the matter, and they reported that there was no reason to doubt that Mrs. Hart had killed herself.

SUICIDE IN A CAR.

Formerly a Druggist and Has Two Brothers in This City.

WHITE PLAINS, April 3.—As the Harlem train due here at 1 o'clock this morning was pulling into the station, a passenger in the smoking car jumped to his feet and, with an exclamation that was unintelligible to others in the car, placed a revolver to his forehead and fired.

An instant later he was lying prostrate in the aisle of the car. His limbs and the muscles of his face were twitching spasmodically when the passengers reached him. He died just as the train came to a standstill.

The body was carried from the car and placed upon some boxes in the freight station, there to await orders from the coroner for its removal.

The suicide was apparently about forty years old and fairly well dressed. He weighed about 180 pounds, and was five feet eleven inches in height.

In a notebook found in one of his pockets were several names and addresses. The first of these names, which is believed to be that of the dead man, is Harry W. Hodson, of 12 West Thirty-ninth street. Under this entry are the words "Tell Ma."

Following this entry the name "Dr. J. E. Hodson" and the address "No. 15 West Thirty-ninth street" appear at least a dozen times.

On another page of the book is the name "Anna E. Kingston" and the address "No. 62 West Thirtieth street." Under this entry are the words "Tell Ma."

George Quinby, conductor of the train, left a request at the station here that a notification of the suicide be sent to Dr. J. E. Hodson at the address given.

At 10 West Thirtieth street an "Evening World" reporter found Dr. J. E. Hodson, a widower and had been in the city for some time, and was obliged to give up all business.

Dr. Hodson kept a drug store in this city, but had not been actively engaged for four or five years.

Dr. Hodson was a widower and had two children. The Anna E. Kingston, whose address was written in the notebook, is a cousin living in New York, and was the wife of a merchant.

"There was no quarrel in this," he said, "and there was no reason for his suicide. He was a quiet, sensible man, and was not in the least excited."

Hodson had been rooming on the top floor of the West Thirtieth street in a building known as the "Hodson building." He was found yesterday at the request of the reporter.

Hodson told the reporter that Mrs. Hodson's death was a great loss to him, and that he was very much distressed. He said that he was a quiet, sensible man, and was not in the least excited.

NEW UTRECHT VOTING.

Reformers Confident of Defeating the Ring.

BATH BEACH, April 3.—The town election of New Utrecht was begun yesterday afternoon, but quite conditions this morning. The polls opened at sunrise, and both parties, the Independents and Fergusons, were out in full force.

The Ferguson gang sprang a sort of surprise on their opponents this morning in the shape of a fourth ticket, which was practically the regular Ferguson ballot, with an addition of five candidates.

This was done to secure two additional watchers at each polling place, and even up matters with the united Republicans and Independent Democrats, who are each entitled to two watchers.

While the surprise sprang by the Fergusonites is plainly illegal, the reform elements make no objection to this morning. The polls opened at sunrise, and both parties, the Independents and Fergusons, were out in full force.

TALK OF BURNING PLANTS.

Striking Coke-Workers Threaten Still Greater Violence.

Authorities at Uniontown May Not Be Able to Control Them.

(By Associated Press.)
UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 3.—It was reported late last night that the strikers openly threatened to burn the plants rather than see them operated at present prices for labor. If they attempt this loss of life will certainly follow. The strikers will soon, if they do not already, muster 12,000 to 14,000 men, and in their present state of indignation they are reckless. The civil authorities admitted last night that they might not be able to cope with the trouble. A big meeting was held here last night and the wildest of the foreign element were in virtual command. They openly declared it the purpose of the strikers, as the sense of this meeting, to drive out every man who was not a striker.

The strikers were greatly disappointed because of the failure of the National organization to send them aid and encouragement yesterday. There has not been a National representative in the region for several days, and it is said that organization has withdrawn its support.

LONDON A BUYER TO-DAY.

And Easy Money Aids in the General Bull Feeling.

The bulls were able to pay off old scores this morning. Their opponents made a little headway yesterday, owing to the sales for London account, and they relied upon further selling orders from that centre to help them along again today.

The selling, however, the foreigners seemed anxious to get back their stocks, and so soon as this became apparent, the bulls came in and the market was a long time quiet. Chicago gave aid and support to the London bulls, and the market was a long time quiet.

The underflow of speculation is strong, and sentiment favors the bull side of the account. The market is a long time quiet.
